DEDICATION

"The whole theory of the universe is directed unerringly to one single individual—namely to You."

Walt Whitman

This sixtieth volume of the DRAGON is dedicated by the Class of 1967 to the individual. The universe presents to each person, because he is unique, a different but equally real view of life. The task remains for each person to grasp that life securely, attempting to achieve his special goals. Therefore, we dedicate this yearbook to that person who has made the effort and thus learned how to live through living. We call him an individual and can pay him no higher compliment.

Thomas K. Barratt
B. S., M. Ed., D. Ed.
Clarion State College
The Pennsylvania State University
Superintendent of Schools

Mr. Landin, Director of Secondary Education; Mr. Christy, Director of Pupil Personnel Services; Mr. Anderson, Director of Research and Certification.

New administrators direct the recently formed county school district.

The greatest responsibilities in the entire educational system of Warren County belong to the Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Barratt, and his assistant, Mr. Thompson. From their office, school policy regarding all schools in the district originates. Furthermore, they must concern themselves with the financial and business matters of the school in order to insure the most efficient use of the county's resources.

This year is Dr. Barratt's first as Superintendent of Schools, as is also the case with his assistant, Mr. Thompson. However, both men's experience in other posts has enabled them to achieve an especially smooth transition to office. Because it is the first year for the unified district, Warren County can look forward to an even better educational system in years to come under the guidance of Dr. Barratt and Mr. Thompson.

In managing new posts this year, Mr. Landin, Mr. Christy, and Mr. Anderson employ experience gained as superintendents or principals of other schools in the county. Each man administers a certain level of education, thus increasing the efficiency of the schools as a unit.

OFFICERS

MR. MELVIN G. KELLER ..... President
MR. ROBERT K. CYPHERT ..... Vice-president
MR. CHARLES BECK ..... Secretary
MR. JOHN D. HAGGERTY ..... Treasurer
MR. ROBERT LUNDBERG ..... Assistant Secretary-Treasurer

This year a reorganized school district including all of the former districts of Warren County has been established. By unification the school board strives to provide a better educational program on a basis of equal opportunity for each student. Even though several changes were required, the transition has been smoothly achieved through the capable direction of the school board. In order to represent each area of Warren County on the school board, members have been elected from specific localities in the county. President Melvin G. Keller, Mr. W. S. Calderwood, and Mr. Myron Jewell represent Warren borough, whereas Vice-president R. K. Cyphert represents Tidioute, Mr. Anundson, Sheffield, Mr. Franklin, Irvine, Mr. Petersen, Northern Area, and Dr. D. K. Rice and Mr. L. A. Pierson, the Warren Area Joint District. Furthermore, each member of the school board is concentrating his efforts in an area of specialization wherein he is an expert and thus hopes to advance the standards of the district's educational facilities.

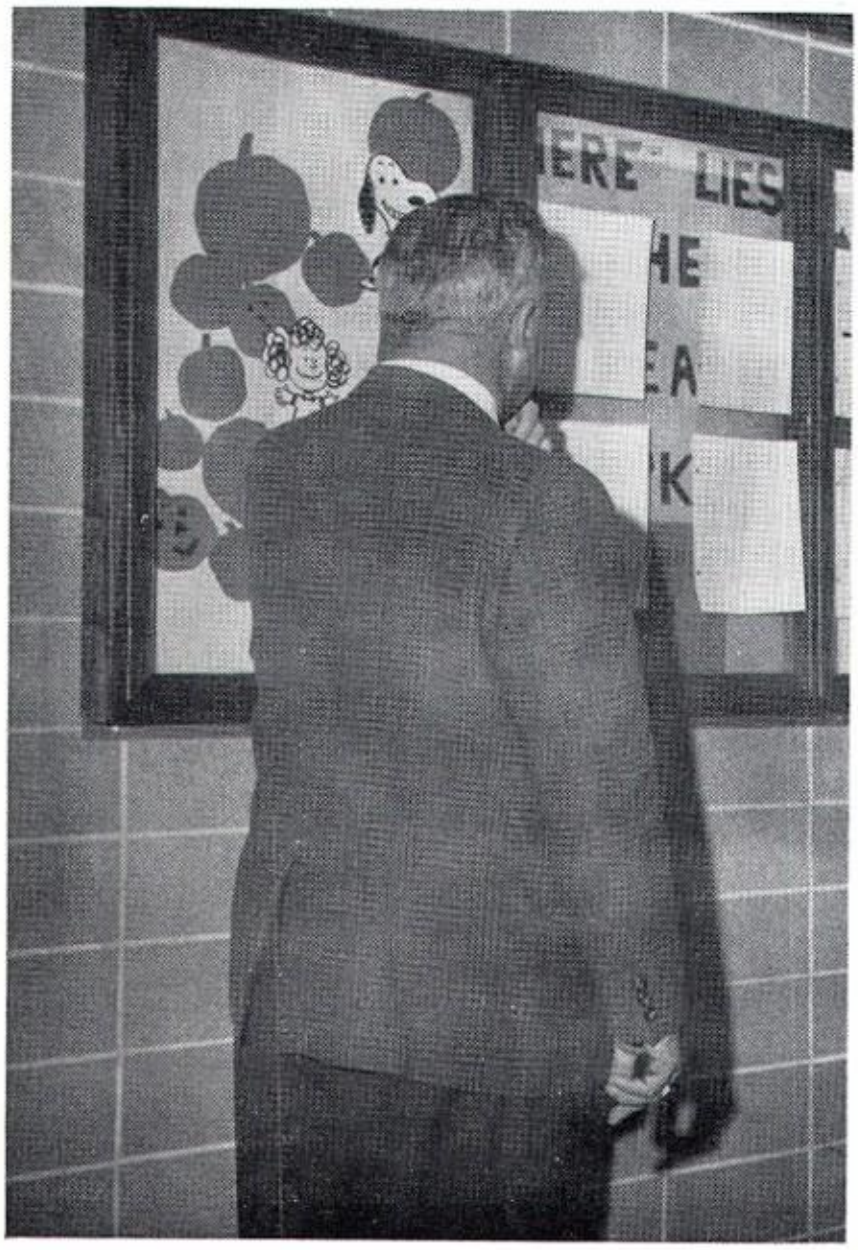
Principal

The administration, under the leadership of Mr. Passaro provides our school with an efficient curricular program and a school policy beneficial to both students and faculty. Due to the growth of our school and the many responsibilities of administration, Mr. Miller has been appointed as a second assistant principal this year. He shares the duties of that office with Mr. Kurz, who already has several years of experience in the position. All three men have extended the radius of their services to not only the high school, but the community as well.

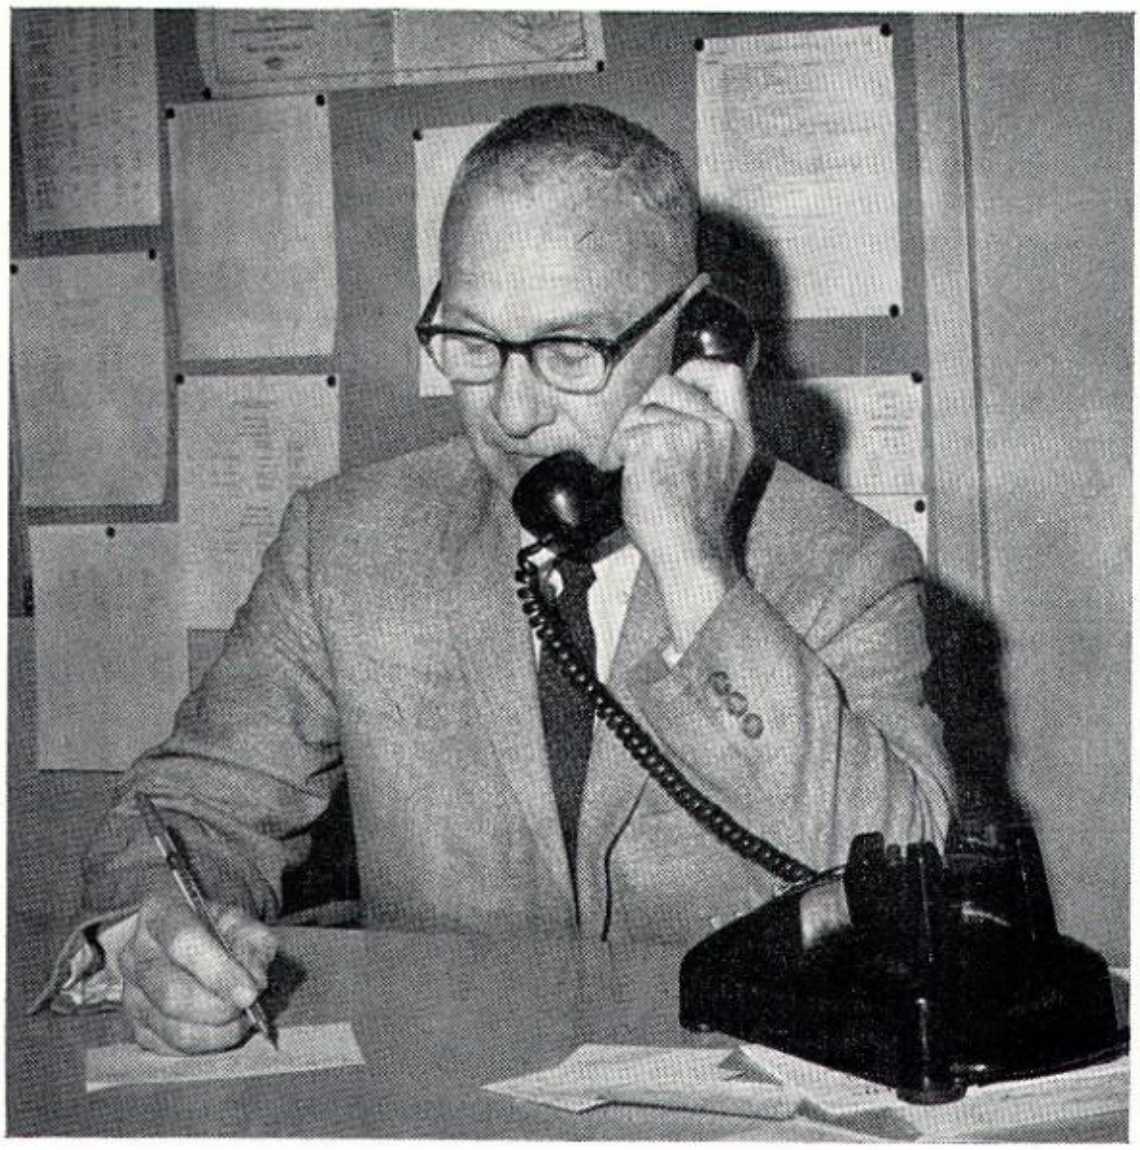
Students acknowledge Mr. Passaro's effective planning and advice.

Mr. Joseph V. Passaro has given himself completely to the betterment, not only of our school body, but also to the betterment of the individual student. Mr. Passaro's counsel as our principal and friend has aided us toward responsible adulthood. He has especially helped build individual character, which insures us a place in the world long after graduation. For uniting our scholastic education with some of life's most important lessons, we gratefully acknowledge him.

Mr. Passaro takes an interest in the activities of each class.



Details pertaining to school functions demand Mr. Passaro's daily attention.



Conferring with the superintendent's office on a supply order is just one of Mr. Kurz's daily tasks.

SCHOOL DOCTOR: Dr. A. J. O'Connor

In an age when the world demands well-educated and well-adjusted men and women to meet its challenges, the guidance office plays a major role in preparing students for their responsibilities. This preparation ranges from organizing students schedules to aiding students in career decisions. Each class entering high school is now assigned to an individual guidance counselor for all three years in order to create a more personal relationship between counselor and student. Mr. Warren Carr counsels the senior class, Mr. Ronald Isackson the junior class, and Miss Jean Steele the sophomore class. College, technical, and military literature, along with lectures by college representatives, further aids students in deciding upon vocations. Through all of these methods, our guidance counselors help each student attain his individual goals.

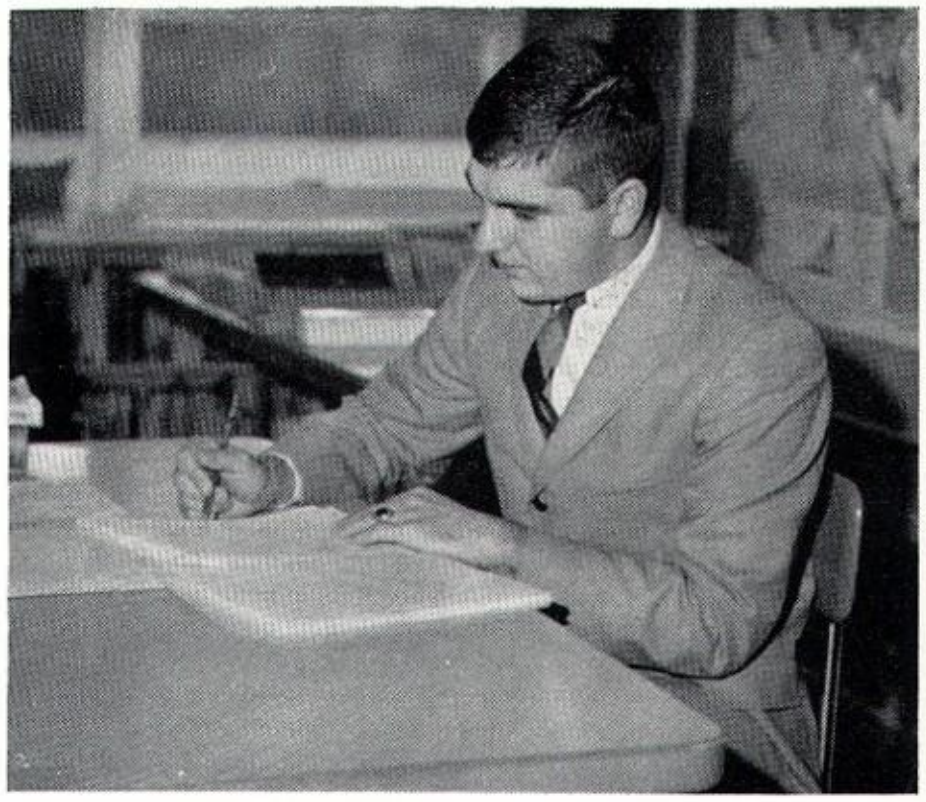
Mr. Greene teaches the individual as well as the entire class.



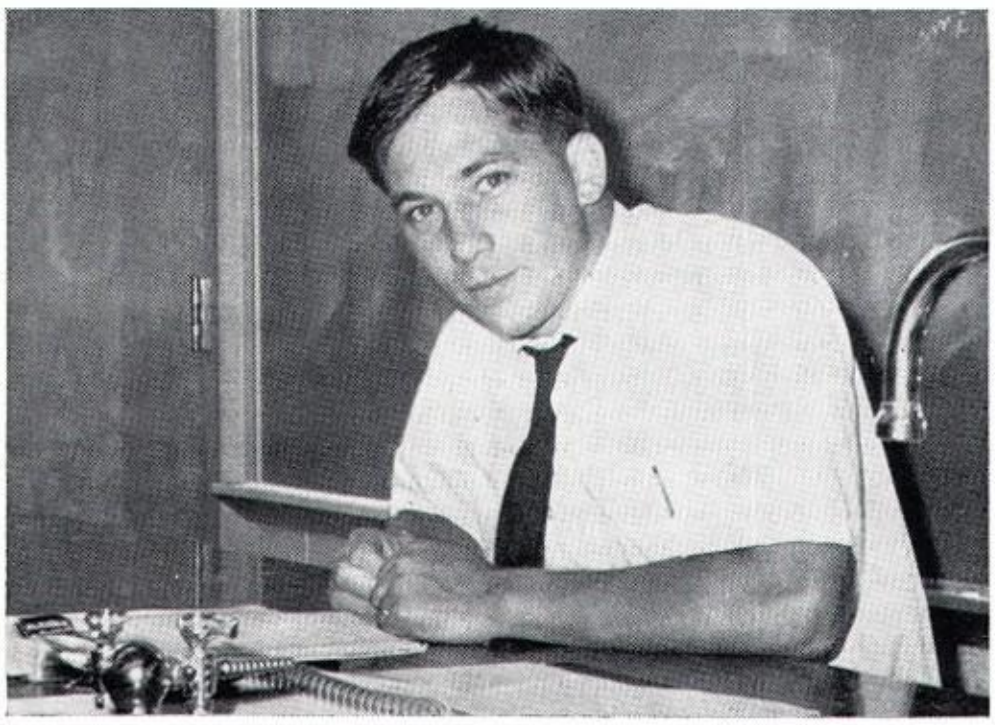
Mr. Vizza makes corrections and helpful suggestions on sophomore compositions.

Regardless of a student's interests, English enables him to express himself clearly and concisely in all that he says and writes. Realizing this, the English department presents a program adjusted to the student's abilities and stressing individual achievement. Every student's studies include grammar, composition, and literature. Sophomore English concentrates on a basic foundation in world literature, junior English on American literature, and senior English on English literature. Furthermore, for students who excel or wish to specialize, speech classes and advanced placement classes are available. Through this type of program, the student not only learns to speak and write correctly but creatively as well.

English strengthens the student's ability to communicate.

Interjecting a humorous point into his teaching, Mr. Ferguson brings smiles to the faces of his dramatics students.

In keeping with the recent emphasis and expansion in the fields of science, our science department has grown to meet the needs of each individual student. The college-oriented student acquires a basic foundation for further study through biology, chemistry, and physics. Students who have definite plans for a future in science find the various courses of B. S. C. S., chem study, anatomy, and microbiology helpful. Conservation and science survey courses provide a practical education in applied science. Thus, everyone is able to study the science most useful to him.



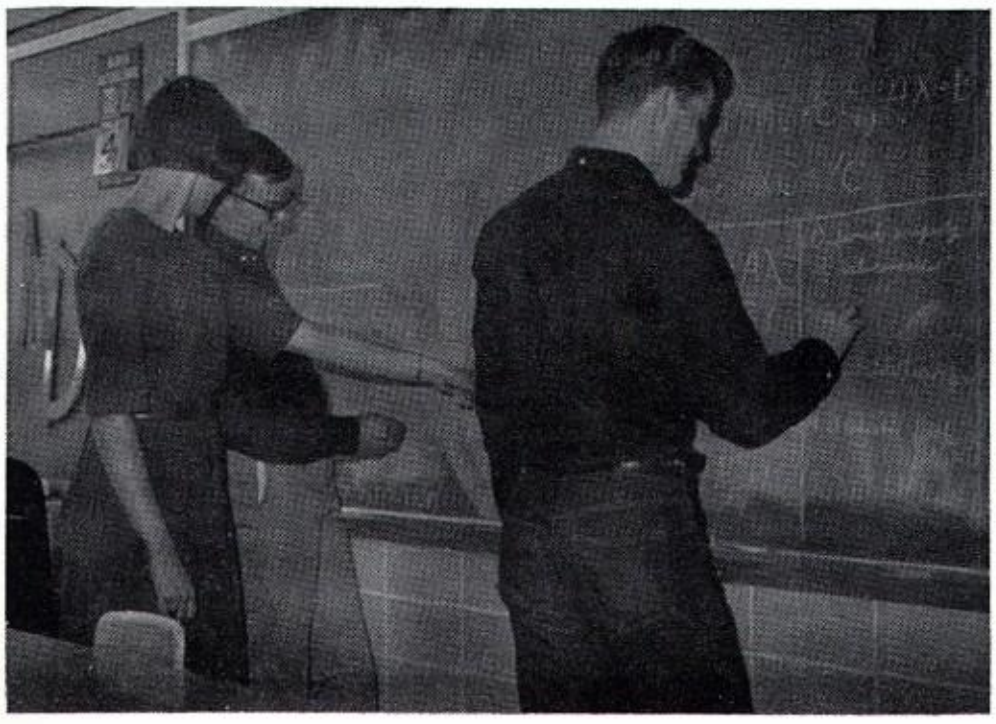
After a hard day, Mr. Creek looks up from his work just long enough to be photographed.

Engrossed in a chemistry experiment, Dave Schuler and Barb Preston practice their lab technique.

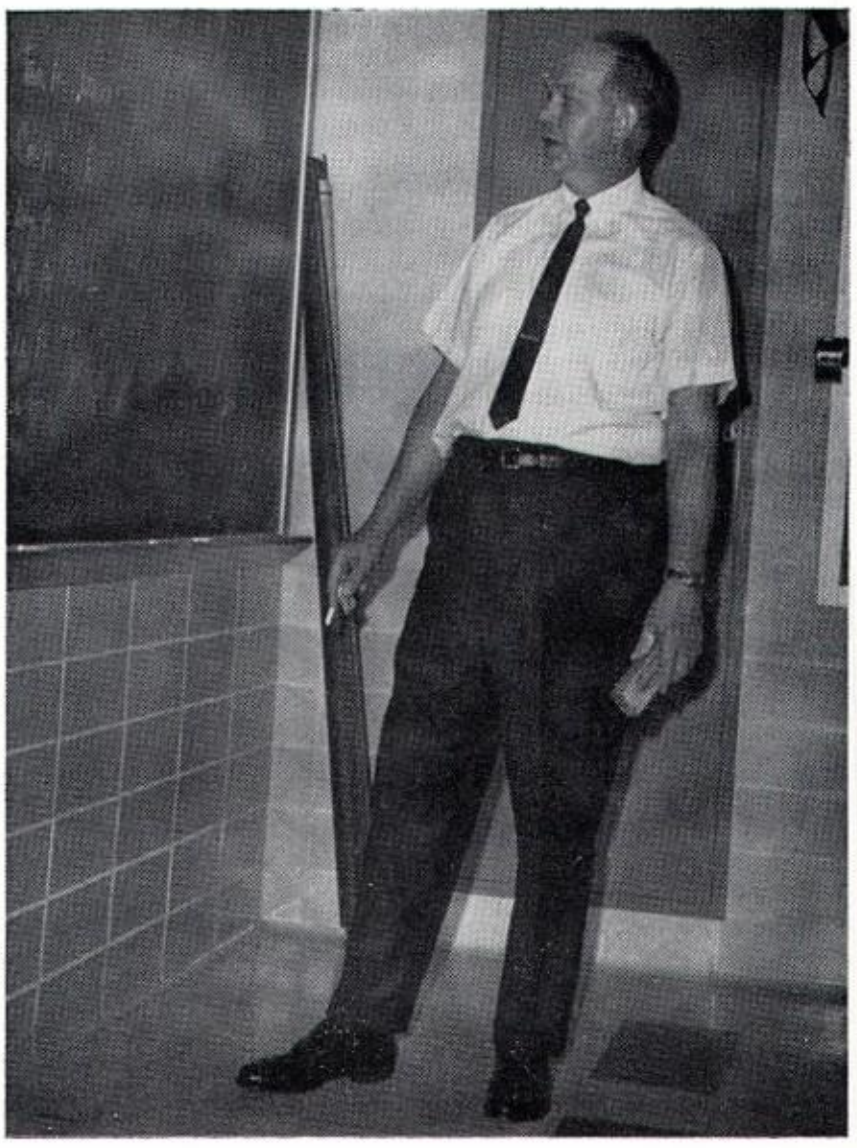
Math and science encourage investigation of the unknown.

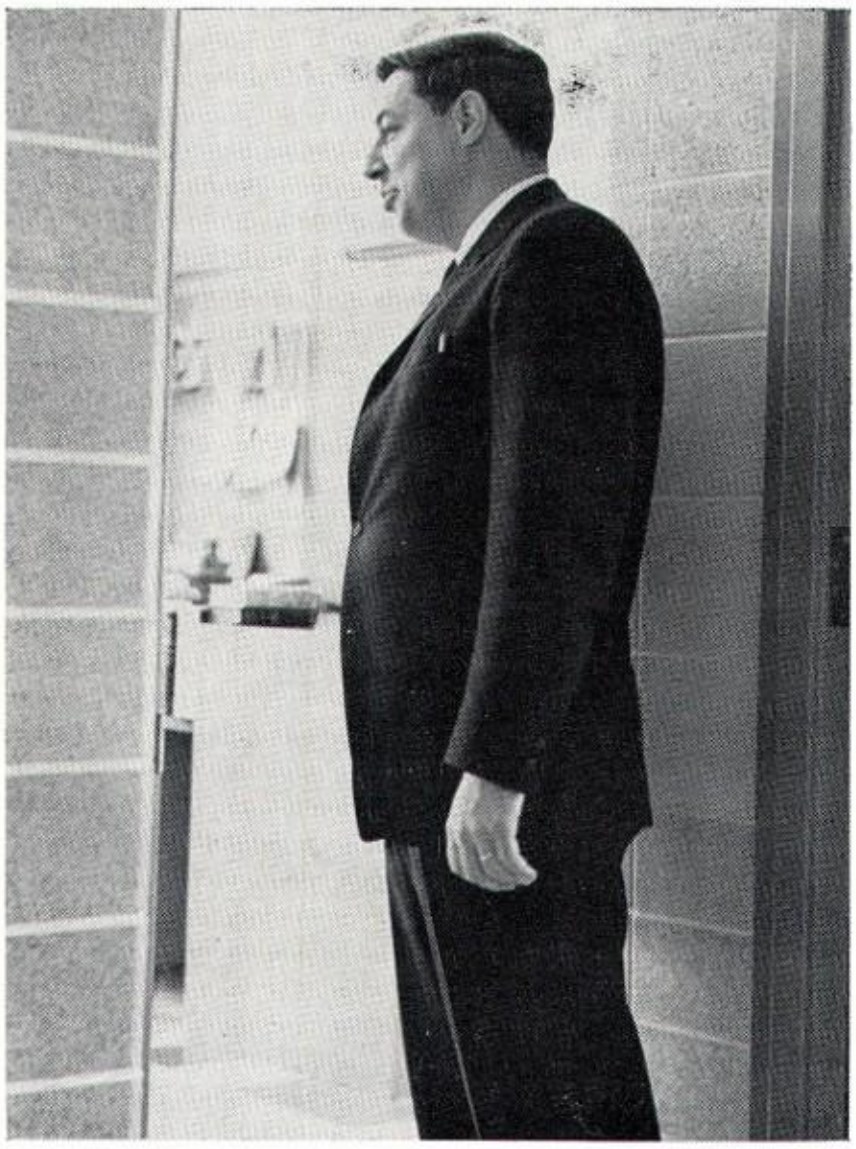
Mathematics is a cornerstone of human reasoning and logic. Regardless of intended vocation, each student finds it important for the maturation of his thinking. Therefore, math education begins early in life. By the time high school is reached, students may branch into algebra, integrated trigonometry and algebra, trigonometry, unified geometry, or calculus, if special aptitude is shown. Such courses, helpful in scientific endeavor, accompany sound practical courses in general and business math in order to meet the needs of each student.

Mrs. Kauffman aids Rich Andersen and Dodie DeLong in their interpretation of a geometry proof.



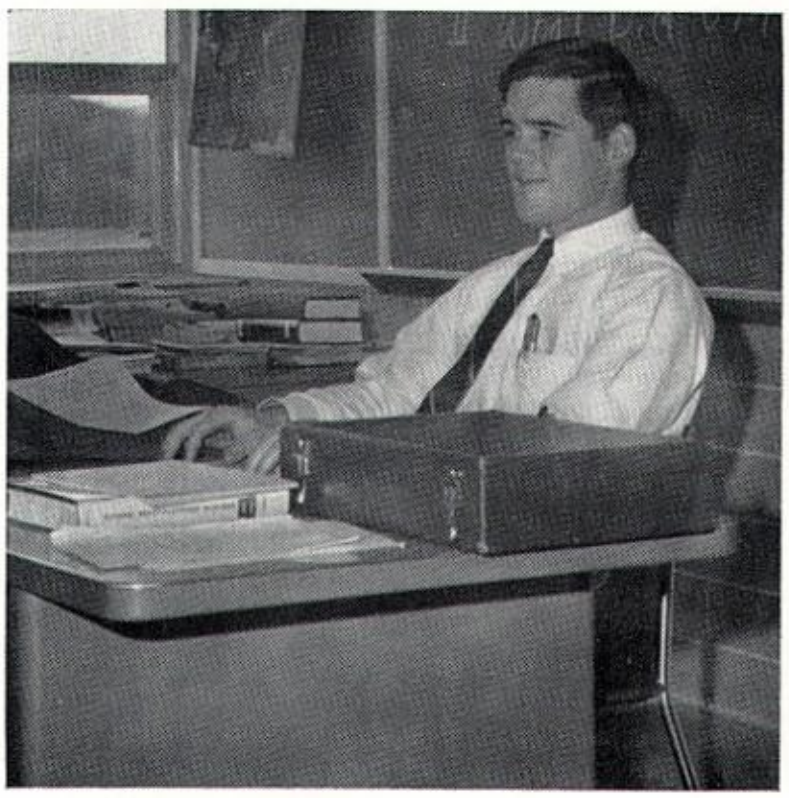
Mr. Sampson steps back to appraise a trig problem.





Mr. Fey's presentation of history is both interesting and enjoyable.

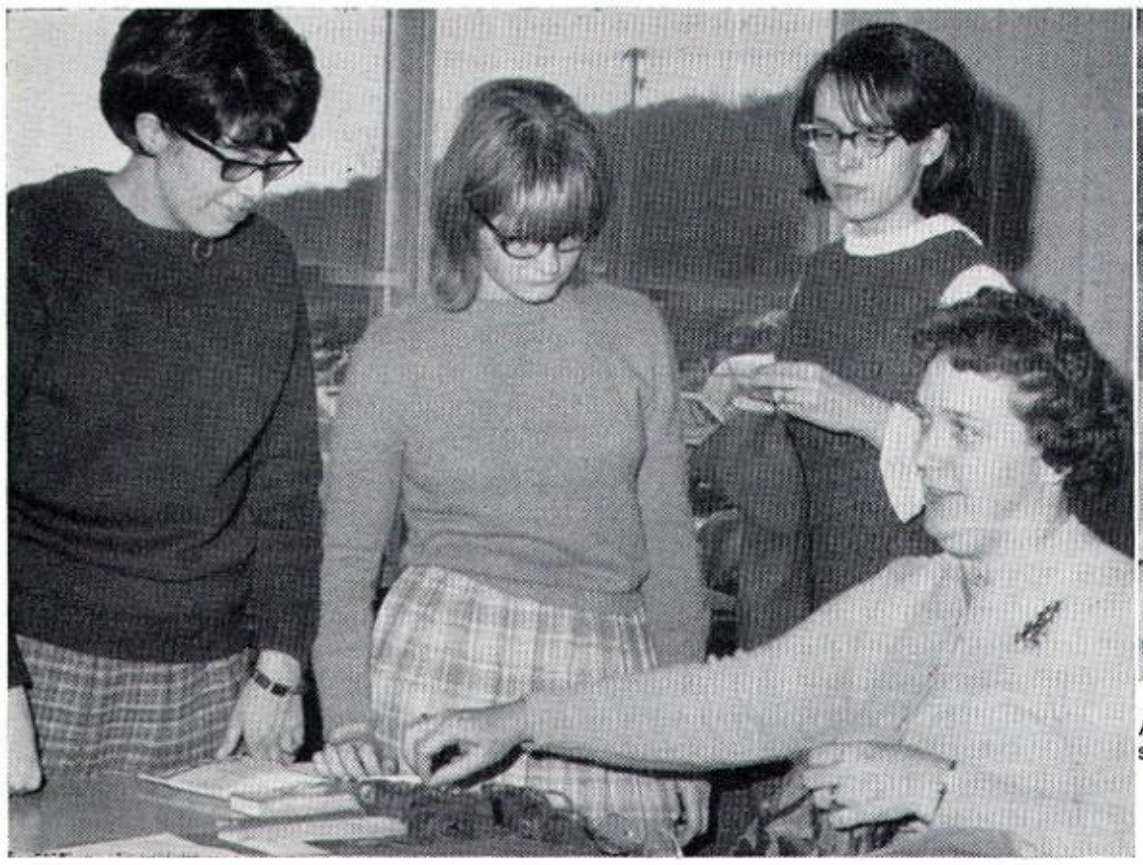
The social studies department invites students to investigate man's past actions and the factors behind them in an effort to understand human progress. At the high school that effort begins with the sophomore course in world cultures. With this background the junior then centers his historical investigation upon American history. Finally, as a senior, the student specializes in subjects important to his future life — economics and sociology or problems of democracy. If students have the desire or initiative, they may enroll in advanced courses as juniors and seniors, or they may study world geography. Through such courses history imparts mature, logical reasoning. Having studied the past, students are enabled to better control the future.



One of our first year teachers, Mr. Eggleston, listens receptively to a student's comment.

The social sciences relate the past to the present.

Mr. Minnis proves a point directly from the book.



Pat Wetmore, Linda Espin, and Judy Warr gather around Mrs. Bryan to learn the fine points of knitting.

A quiet moment in the home ec class is enjoyed by Jeanne Charnisky, Judy Repine, and Cathy Benson.

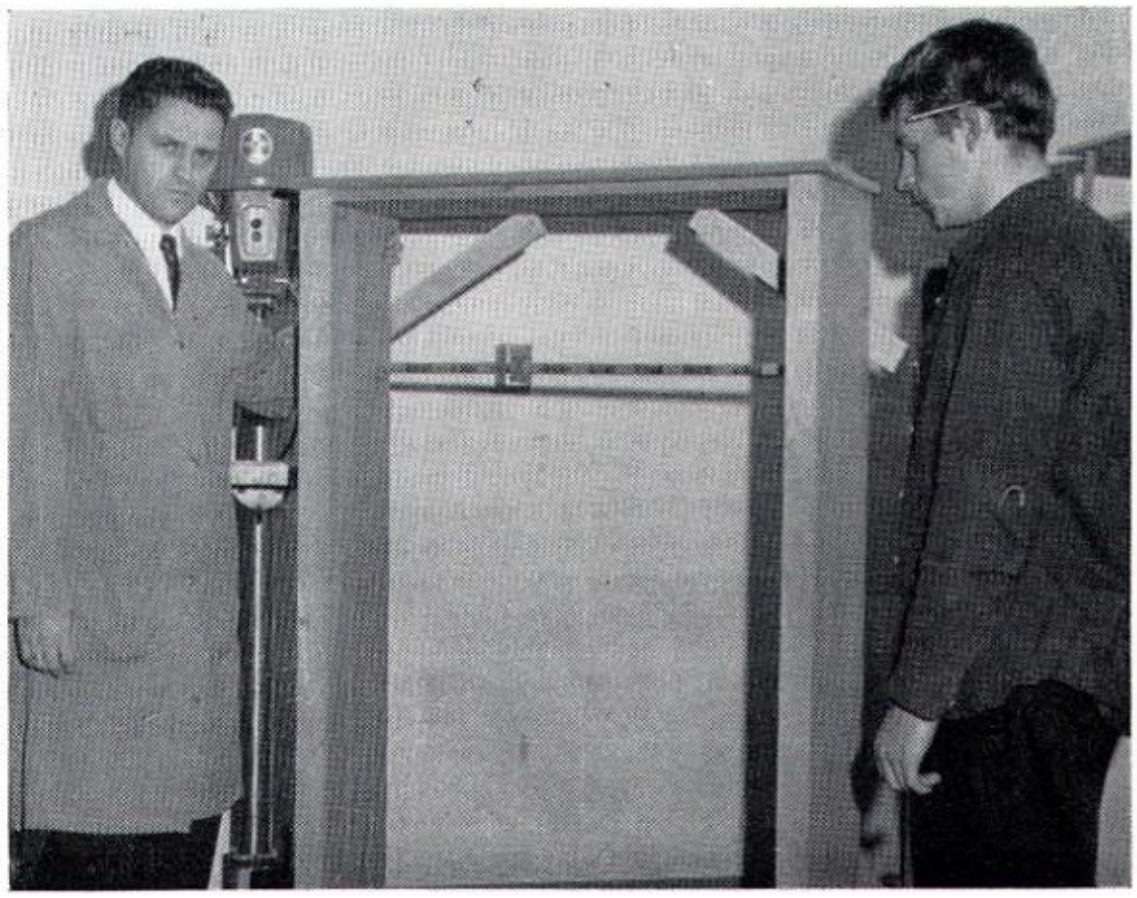
Students sharpen individual skills in home ec and shop.

In shop the students' minds and hands work closely together, learning skills in a manual trade. Starting out in a first year course of wood shop and mechanical and metal shop, the boys quickly learn necessary fundamentals. Then, because interest may naturally be concentrated in a certain area, the students are allowed to specialize or begin work in mechanical drawing. The results of their learning and labor take practical form in projects which the students create.

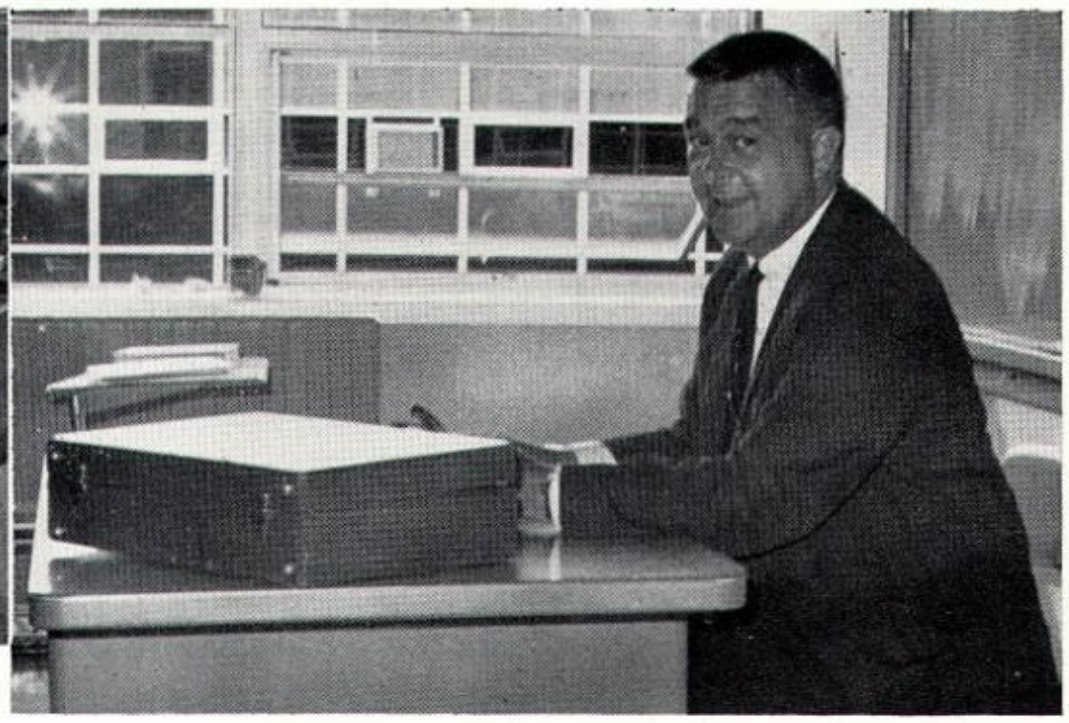
A diversified course, home economics provides all interested girls with a chance to better themselves in the arts of homemaking. Besides learning the fundamentals of cooking and sewing, each girl formulates plans for her future marriage, including designs for her wedding gown and the arrangement of her reception. Home nursing, family relations, and child care constitute other phases of the program. The students of home economics receive an education which will help them throughout their adult lives.

Terry Hawk bends wire to complete another section of his shop project.

Mr. Kristy checks a gun case made by Bob Johnson in the wood working class.



The smallest class in the school is appreciated by Bill Potter, Pan Fanaritis, and Bassna Sadek in their endeavor to learn French.



With a twinkle in his eye to match that in the window, Mr. Stachowiak glances at the camera.

Because of a desire for a concrete and interesting vocation, many of our students have enrolled in business courses. Obtaining a knowledge of the subject through a general course, they may branch into secretarial or financial and legal aspects of business. Bookkeeping, business law, and consumer economics are fine courses for future businessmen and women. However, typing and shorthand transcription courses provide a working knowledge useful not only to future secretaries, but to others as well. When all is considered, much of adult life is concerned with business, making this curriculum helpful for the maturity of our students.

Communication of all knowledge and thought between countries depends upon a sound understanding of the languages of the world. To this end, the language department presents a thorough study of five world languages — Russian, Latin, Spanish, German, and French. Three years of Russian and Spanish are available, as are four years of Latin, French, and German. To acquire substantial fluency, a student's work includes composition, literature, and practical conversation in his chosen language. However, besides linguistics, students achieve an insight into the cultures and mores of foreign peoples. This is important as nations become more intimately involved with one another.

Language and business prepare the student for a richer adult life.

Gail Font diligently types as Mr. Miller observes her progress.

Mr. Patterson provides help and encouragement on a business assignment.

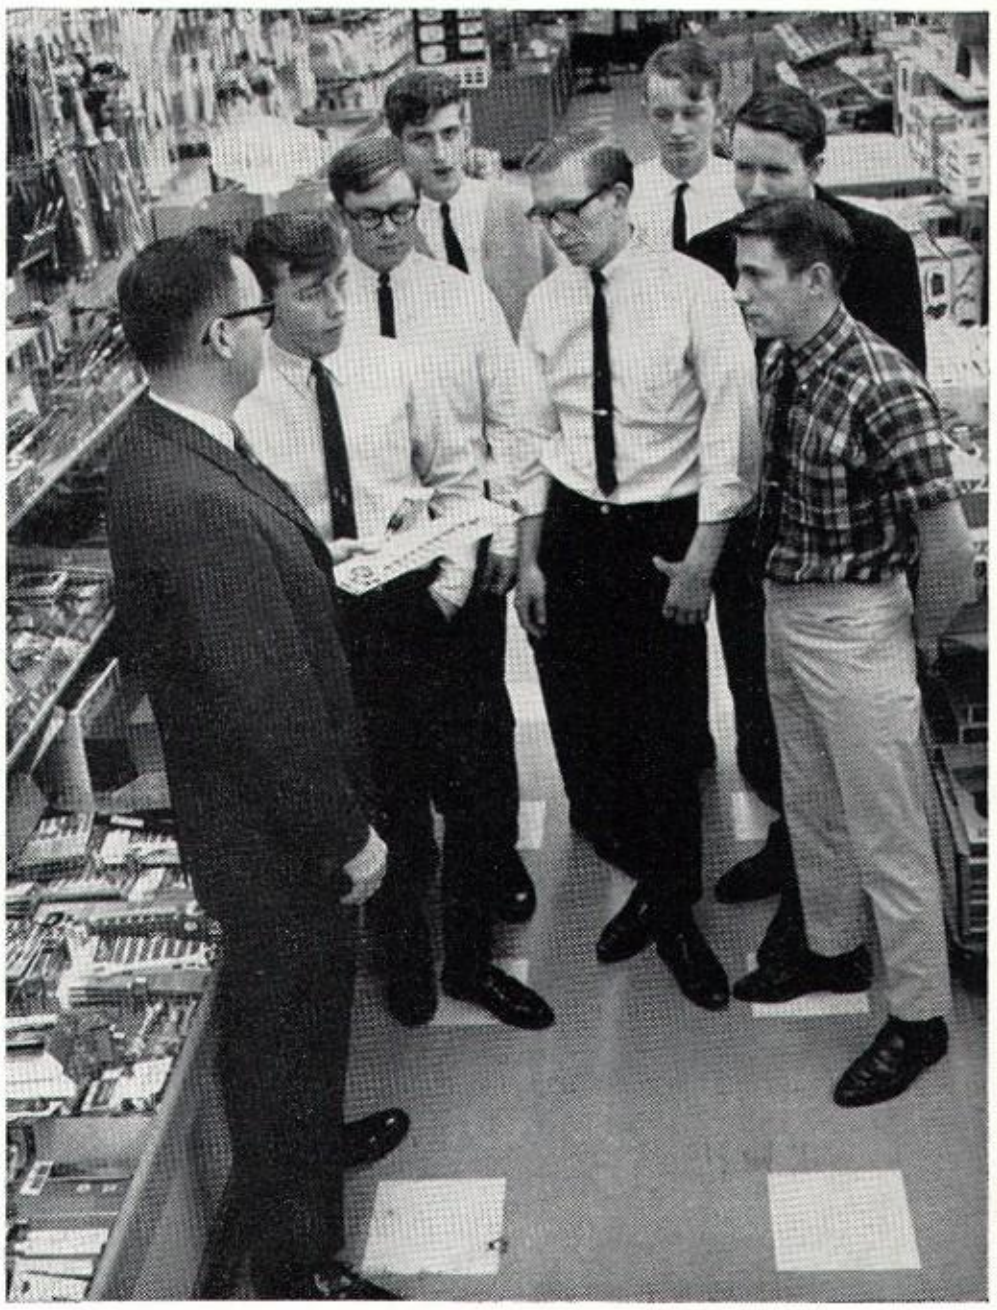
Kenneth Parker, Frank Notoro, Marilyn Lord, Valerie Grosch, Charles Fox, coordinator, Warren E. Miller, Cheryl Kirkwood, and William Pingrey, assistant manager at W. T. Grant Co. examine the merchandise in the music department.

Distributive education provides practical experience.

Practicing the art of picture framing, Adam Thornton, Elizabeth Hansen, Karen Meadows, Raffaela Zaffino, Marjorie McCulla, and Kent Hudson find a suitable combination.

Realizing that a familiarity with the merchandise is necessary for better salesmanship, Dorothy McClain, Arthur Emehizer, Carol Slack, John Chimenti, Tom Dunham, Donna Egger, and Dave Lawson check the racks at Grants.

Distributive education provides a sound background and on-the-job training for seniors desiring a career in the business world. The day includes a schedule of classroom subjects ranging from English and history to a full slate of business subjects. When the students complete the classroom segment, they are well versed in the values of display and advertising and the mechanics of merchandising and retail mathematics. In the afternoon this knowledge is supplemented with employment in a local business establishment. Observation of proper sales techniques and retail management will help the students in finding a useful niche in business. Because their education takes place in the store as well as in the classroom, employers, with the teacher, grade the students on their co-operation as salesmen. The combination of earning money while acquiring an education in their life work appeals to future businessmen.

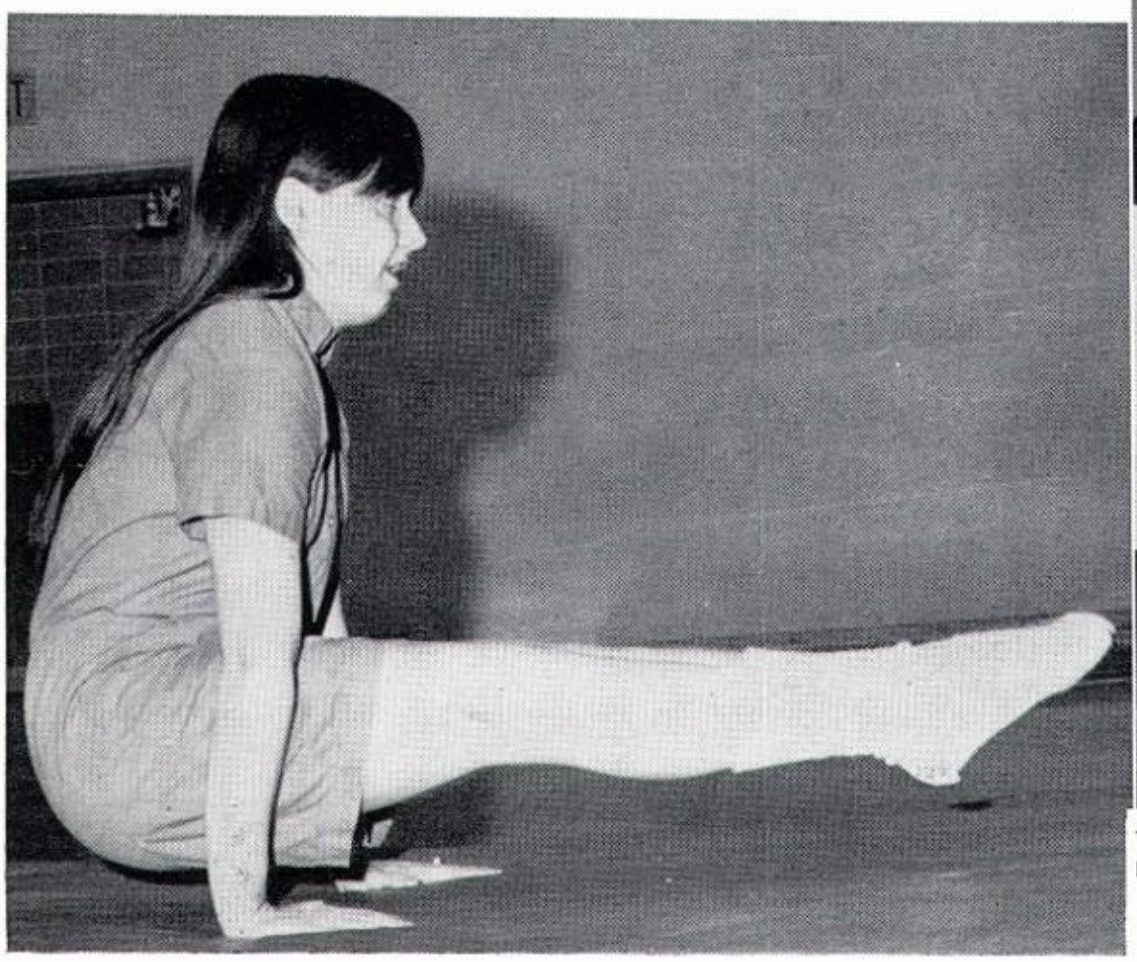


John Kaiser, Manager at the W. T. Grant Co. informs Robert English, Hal Knapp, Tom Lobdell, Kenneth Silvis, Gary Jordan, Lester Stroup, and James Lauffenburger of the wide variety of tools and building equipment located in the hardware department.

With occupational experience students advance toward future careers.

Craig Newton, Norman Kiser, Hal Wenzel, Maryanne Yoxtheimer, Caroline Flynn, Janis Wood, and James Kramer learn the techniques of properly fitting the prospective customer.

Required of all students, driver's education couples classroom training with actual experience in driving a car. Students are encouraged to bring newspaper clippings of automobile accidents, so that they may determine the cause of the accident and learn the proper steps to avoid such an occurrence. Throughout the year films are shown to acquaint the prospective drivers with the workings of the car engine, buying used cars and proper insurance, and caring for their cars. Driver's education is an important step towards decreasing the number of automobile accidents and saving lives.



Karen Mattei performs a perfect L-seat.

Tim Nuhfer and Phyllis Valone are taught the value of making periodic oil checks by Mr. Shantz and Mr. Massa.

Driver education and gym develop coordination and physical dexterity.

Physical education is a part of each student's schedule. A break from the academic portion of the school day, gym provides an outlet for the abundant energy of the students. Team competition is a vital facet of the gym program with boys and girls often joining for a spirited volleyball game. One of the favorite exercises is working on the equipment. Individual excellence is encouraged, as the performances in the gym show indicated. Whatever the sports interests of a student, gym provides a diversified field of activities in which to participate.

Mr. Miller assists Charles Pope in executing a single cut through the horse.

Working in one of many fields presented in first year art, Dave Segel constructs a coil pot out of clay.

The artistic talents of Sam Manno are displayed readily through his finger painting.

Capable students display creative talents in art class.

Under the able supervision of Mr. Hughey, art students develop a definite style as they learn the fundamentals of art. First-year students are introduced to the techniques of sketching in pencil, charcoal, or pen and ink, painting in water color, and making three-dimensional sculptures and constructions. Art II students become involved in more complicated projects of the same nature, while Art III students begin oil painting and other specialties in which they concentrate throughout the year.

This year, the art students made toys which were sent to the Zem Zem Hospital in Erie at Christmas time. The art department plans to make a large metal sculpture which they will place in the court as a contribution to Warren Area High School.

Mr. Hughey combines talent with wit to make his art lessons interesting and meaningful to Chuck Deshner.

The Glee Clubs prepare students for more advanced music.

The Girls' and Boys' Glee Clubs, composed of students from all three classes, begin their high school choral experience by learning the basics of musicianship: rhythm, reading of the staff, blending, and sight singing. They apply these skills to the learning of a variety of songs. In addition to appearing in several assemblies during the year, both glee clubs perform in the Holiday Music Festival. This year for the first time the eighteen-voice Boys' Glee Club traveled with the A Cappella Choir to the Warren State Hospital, where they participated in the choir's annual Christmas program.

A Cappella's presentation of "H.M.S. Pinafore" delights the audience.

Denny DeLuca awaits his entrance cue off-stage during a reheasal of "H. M. S. Pinafore."

The A Cappella Choir is the advanced choral group at Warren Area High School. The sixty-four voice choir sings a variety of sacred and secular choral selections. Having gained musical knowledge from previous experience in the glee clubs, choir members are prepared to sing challenging music. This year's choir sang in three choral assemblies presented in October, February, and April. During the Christmas season, choir's busy schedule included concerts for the Rotary Club and patients at the Warren State Hospital. As a traditional close to the Holiday Festival, the glee clubs and members of the audience joined the choir in singing Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus". A Cappella Choir presents two concerts annually, one in the winter and one in the spring. The Annual Winter Concert featured excerpts from the musical "West Side Story" and solos by Renee Schulman. For the second half of the program, the choir, attired in Victorian garb in place of their traditional robes, presented highlights from Gilbert and Sullivan's opperetta "H. M. S. Pinafore," with John Tillard, Barry Dietsch, Ann McFate, Denny DeLuca, Ross Bryan, Corky Greenwood, Nancy Niedzialek and Chris Williams as soloists. As always, the members of this year's A Cappella Choir enjoyed a challenging and stimulating musical experience.

The period music of the Madrigal Group produces a unique sound.

The Madrigal Singers, a group of twelve outstanding musicians carefully chosen from the A Cappella choir, sing a type of music all its own. Traditional madrigals form the bulk of this group's repertoire. Listening to these lilting melodies written in counterpoint is a unique and enjoyable experience. The size of the group makes it very flexible, so that it sings for many community clubs and organizations during the year.

Precision drills characterized the Color Guard and Majorettes.

This season the DRAGON Band, Color Guard, and majorettes combined to present interesting and unusual half-time shows. Drum major, Craig Stoldt, wrote and directed all of the band routines while Color Guard Sergeant, Steve Beyer, correlated the new and enlarged Color Guard into the show. To add the finishing touches, Miss Thompson worked with majorettes in precision marching and twirling.

Row I—Sue Burns, Debbie Bell.

Discipline and determination characterize the Dragon Band.

The one-hundred twenty members of the Warren Area High School Band provided many and varied forms of entertainment at football games, concerts, and assemblies. For the first nine weeks of the school year, the marching band rehearsed outside. After much hard work, the marching band developed many colorful and interesting drill routines, allowing a variety at each game. The Dragon Band further aided school spirit with pep songs from the stands.

After football season, the band moved inside to prepare for its concerts and assemblies. The band's first performance was December 8th at the Holiday Music Festival. March 16th was the night of the annual Band Concert with the band's final performance following in an assembly on March 23rd. Throughout the year the band marched in several parades and also provided music at the dedication of the Kinzua Dam. This year's band officers were Becky Hagberg and Bill Cobb, co-presidents, and Bev Christie, secretary.

The Stage Band combines showmanship with musical ability.

The Stage Band performed for many organizations throughout the year, providing entertainment in popular music and jazz. On February 16th, it presented an assembly for the student body. Mr. Frank Aurillo of the Navy School of Music worked with Stage Bands of Warren County at an all-day clinic on January 12th. The day's activities were culminated by a concert held that evening with Mr. Aurillo as featured soloist.

The Class of '67 began its final and most important year with the traditional opening-day ceremonies led by the senior class officers. Members soon settled into a fast moving and profitable year highlighted by many class projects. "The Glass Menagerie" provided entertainment for the senior sponsored Thanksgiving Dance, and their semi-formal Christmas Dance provided a new twist to the holiday season. A highlight of every year is the senior class play. This year the play presented was "Cheaper by the Dozen", which was very well received by the public.

A senior's most lasting memories, however, result from Senior Week. These festivities included a dinner and picnic and were climaxed by baccalaureate and commencement.

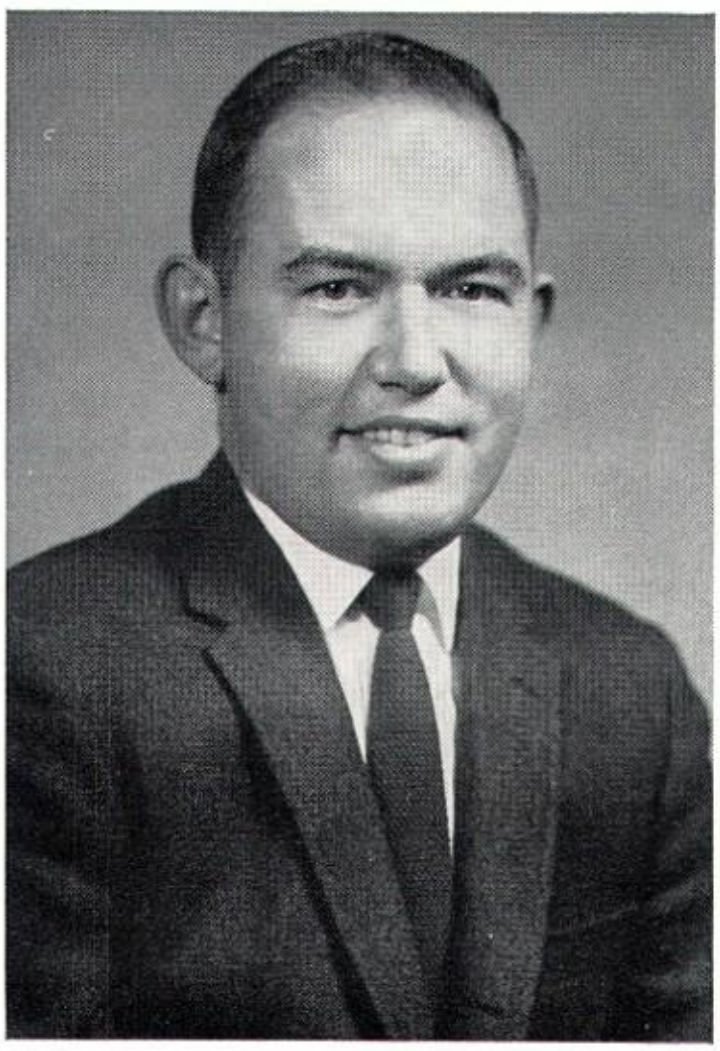
The senior class thanks Mr. Mullen for his service as class advisor.



We, the Class of 1967, owe graditude to our advisor, Mr. Charles Mullen. He was always present to answer our many questions and work along with us on our projects. His belief in us was our greatest encouragement, and his active participation served to increase our own capabilities. Mr. Mullen's guidance and support did not end with our class, but was evident throughout the school, in the sports' program especially. By striving to reflect his guidance in our lives, we wish to honor him.

The most important project of the junior class is the Junior-Senior Prom, which took place this year in a picturesque oriental setting entitled "Sayonara". As usual, the Prom was a big success, but so were the juniors other projects. They sold about $4,500 worth of Betty Dixon candy for a profit of $1500. February 11 saw a new idea sponsored by the junior class — a computer dance in which couples were paired by a computer for a part of the evening. Such ideas showed originality, provided entertainment, and helped pay the expenses of the Prom with plenty left over to help meet costs for the following year.

Class elections and the selection of an advisor initiated the sophomores in the ways of life on the hill. Under Mr. Salerno's guidance, the officers began projects which aided class spirit as well as the class treasury. At the first class meeting, the officers proposed a dance held on May 10 and a car wash for the day of the Junior-Senior Prom. Along with projects such as these, the sophomores enthusiastically received ideas for their class sweatshirts and class flag — important parts of any class program. These ideas met with a great deal of support and, combined with good leadership, gave the sophomore class a great year at the high school.

During his stay in Warren, Le resided with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mohney and his American sister and brother, Carol and Ron.

During an assembly, Bassna explains the significance of her country's flag.

A group of four exchange students brought their varying cultures and beliefs to W. A. H. S. this year. Bassna Sadek stayed with the family of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lanman and, along with Karl Rabat from Jordan, gave our school a touch of the Middle East. Le Van Dung, known for his cheery disposition, visited us from South Vietnam. Our last foreign exchange student, Juan Monqaut, came in January from Argentina. Sponsored by Rotary International, he will be staying with four different families until his departure next January.

Hauling in a pass, Lee Sondericker goes for a touchdown.

In another exciting year of gridiron sport, the Dragon squad finished with a record of four wins and five loses. Coach Bell pressed the single wing formation and gave each player equal opportunity to prove his merit. This experience resulted in the formation of a fine nucleus upon which to build next year's team. One highlight of the season came with the Bradford game when the Dragons soundly whipped their old rivals, the Owls, 34 to 14. Even though Warren was plagued with bad weather at the away games, Warren still beat Oil City in pouring rain by a score of 37 to 13. Throughout the season our athletes displayed excellent sportsmanship, continuing Warren's reputation for good conduct and athletic prowess.

Mr. Shaw addresses the hometown crowd after winning the state championship title.

This year the Warren Cross Country team has given Warren High School its first state championship in any sport. The coaching of Mr. John Shaw and Mr. Andrew Randas, plus strong desire and hard work on the part of each member of the team, is responsible for the tremendous record achieved by the Harriers. Other than regular competition meets, the team won the Olean J. F. K. Invitational and the Jamestown Turkey Trot and took second in the Gannon Invitational. Climaxing the season were the section, district, and state meets, all of which the Harriers won. The team has made a memorable contribution to Warren High in a sport only three years old in Warren.

Drive and determination best characterized the Dragon basketball team this year. Practice sessions found the team working toward aggressive but co-ordinated ball handling. When on defense, the Dragons continued their hustle, often having it pay off in increased ball possession. Even though the team had only one returning letterman, Coach Shantz whipped the team into fighting trim to meet strong opposition. This enabled the Dragon squad to come up with several upsets, not the least of which was the Bradford game, in which Warren achieved an exciting and sound victory. This year, as always, the Dragons played to win.

The Dragon wrestling team, led by co-captains Bill Shaffer and Frank Cataldo, wrestled their way to a nine win and five loss record this season and a third consecutive second place in Section II competition. Taking on strong competitors from all over northwestern Pennsylvania, the Dragon grapplers highlighted the season by defeating three previously undefeated teams—McDowell Redbank, and Jamestown.

Individuals who starred for the Dragons were Doug Sorensen, who set a new Warren record by completing his twenty-seventh consecutive dual match without a loss; Darrell Pusateri, who had eleven pins this season; and three section champions, Frank Cataldo, Gail Sudul, and Dana Sorensen. This individual excellence plus team effort resulted in an exciting and victorious wrestling season for Warren High.

For several years Warren High has been very strong in the track and field sports, and this year was no exception. Early in March the track team started vigorous calisthenics and distance running in order to get in shape for a highly competitive season. Warren expected a fine showing from its entries in the distance events, and these expectations were more than justified. Also, Warren was strong in the field events this year. As in the past, the Section II meet took place at Corry and the district meet at Meadville. Track is a sport in which individual work really pays off, as proved this year by the Dragon track team.

More than any other group, the cheerleaders and their advisor, Miss Clapp, deserve credit for a spirited year in sports activities and pep assemblies. The rousing cheers and solid backing of the eight varsity cheerleaders have encouraged our athletes to greater effort in varsity sports. In the same way, the junior varsity cheerleaders aided the JV teams. Putting these two groups together in wild costumes made for some interesting pep assemblies. The cheerleaders also sponsored the social highlight of the football season, the Pigskin Prance.

Open to any girl in the high school, the Girls' Athletic Association provided its members with the opportunity to keep physically fit in a most enjoyable way. The active competition in this organization stimulated individual achievement as well as team co-operation. During nice weather the girls could often be seen on the athletic field playing softball or running various track and field races. But bad weather did not hinder the girls as they quickly moved inside to begin playing volleyball and basketball and working out on the gymnastic equipment. Some of the girls who excelled in this skill took part in the gym show. In June, the G. A. A. advisor Mrs. Creek, helped to arrange the culminating event of the season, a county wide field day.

Every other year, the Physical Education Department of the high school unites with many other organizations to display the athletic abilities and skills of its students in a gym show. This year it was again held and proved to be a bigger and better production than ever. A unique activity, the gym show is open to any student who has the desire and ability to participate. Many other students participate indirectly through organizations such as Student Council, which sponsors the show, the circus band, color guard or art department. April twentieth through the twenty-second were the dates on which the show was held, and Mr. Hal Miller, Mrs. Creek, and Mr. Harpster worked hard to iron out each detail. Each participant also put extra effort into his act, performing once in a matinee and twice in evening performances. After the last performance, a dance was held for all the participants and the proceeds of the entire gym show went to the purchase of items needed by the school. All in all, the students were part of an experience which they will remember long after graduation.

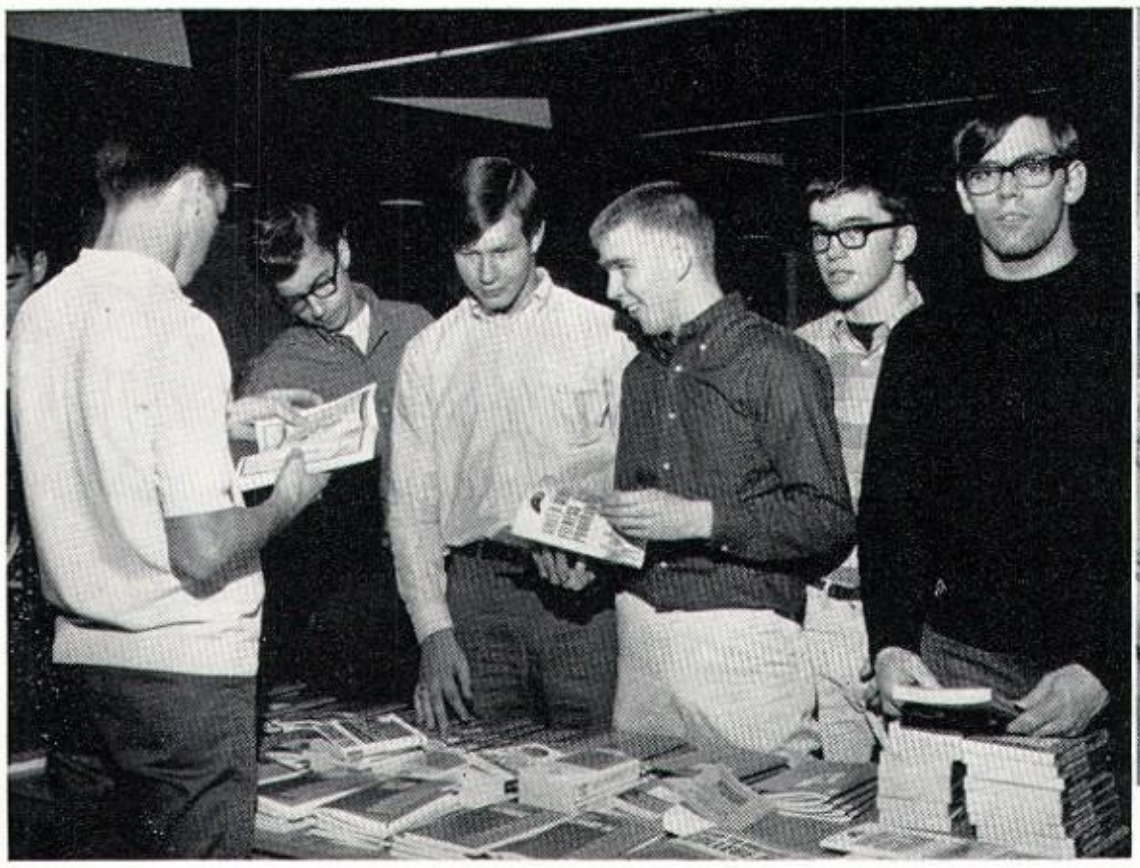
The Student Council is distinguished as being the only organization at Warren Area High School in which members are elected by the student body. Each of the home rooms is represented by one representative and one alternate.

Student Council's main project each year is the fund-raising for the sponsorship of the American Field Service Program. During the past year, the A. F. S. gave us the companionship of Bassna Sadek from the United Arab Republic and Le Van Dung from South Vietnam. In the same way, Christine Williams was able to spend last summer in the Philippine Islands. The money for this project came from many different sources, including the Holiday Hootenanny, candy sales after school, the council store which sells various school supplies, a book fair, the sale of stationery, and the sale of A. F. S. stock, which was the biggest project of the year.

Student Council also grants two scholarships each year to college-bound seniors.

Each year four officers are elected to lead our student government. They are aided by the executive board composed of co-chairmen for council's ten standing committees. Members of the student body are urged to participate in all of council's activities, since council exists for the student's benefit.



Student Council's annual Book Fair brought profit to the Council and pleasure to the students.

Honor Society upholds high academic standards.

Character, scholarship, leadership, service — these four traits epitomize the students who are members of the National Honor Society. Early this year, several seniors were inducted into this honorary organization. In the spring, another induction was held for juniors.

The selling of senior name cards and sponsoring dances helped the Honor Society to award two scholarships to college-bound students. Also, the Honor Society helped the Kiwanians at Christmas time by holding a toy collection drive, which was greatly supported by the students. Having been repaired by State Hospital patients, the toys were distributed to the homes of unfortunate children for Christmas. This project was one of many in service to the school and community involving the unique attributes of the Honor Society.

This year for the first time all six committees of the Model United Nations submitted a bill to the General Assembly. These bills were originally composed by the delegates in Bloc meetings. Bills were constructed for each of the six committees: the U. N. conflict in Vietnam, financing of the U. N., human rights, nuclear proliferation, colonialism, and revision of the U. N. Charter. The General Assembly is held at Gannon College where these bills are debated and defended by the delegates. Representing Ghana, Warren High delegates were required to accept the viewpoint of that country and vote accordingly on the bills. The program is designed to make high school students aware of the problems confronting today's United Nations.

The A. F. S. Program creates better understanding among nations.

For several years, Warren High has avidly supported the American Field Service program, reaping the benefits of close contact with students of foreign countries. Every fall one or more foreign exchange students comes to Warren, while every summer one of our own students goes abroad. Raising the funds to support this program has always been one of Student Council's biggest projects, requiring much planning and hard work. A desire to show each foreign exchange student at the high school a good time has generated more school spirit and friendliness among regular students. The basic aim of the A. F. S. program is to bring students of different countries together in an effort to realize the different customs, and yet basic similarities, which exist among all men everywhere.

A. F. S. Stock Certificates were sold by Student Council to raise money to bring A. F. S. students to Warren.

DEBATE CLUB: (left to right) Helen Kanovsky; Lynn Witkin, Isabelle Molinaro, Corresponding Secretary; John Harper.

This year the Debate Club represented Warren High School in intellectual competition with other schools throughout the area. Members debated the resolution that the foreign aid program of the United States should be limited to non-military assistance. Sections of our debate team argued each side of this question with the school's of Bradford, Union City, Oil City, Meadville, and Titusville in the regular season. This year at the end of the season, many more schools, including Warren, got together for a tournament in which three rounds of debate took place. Debaters received trophies at the end of this championship debate. The Dragon Debate Club successfully argued 33 of 59 debates.

New club fills the school's need for technical specialists.

The newly initiated organization of Technical Specialists filled a definite need in extra-curricular activities. Geared to provide technical training in the five areas of stage, audio, projection, photography, and disc jockey, the club prepared student technical specialists to perform services to the school in their chosen fields as they gain knowledge and experience. Eventually, it is hoped that Tech Specs will expand sufficiently so that crews in each division will be able to meet the needs of the high school. Meeting regularly this year, the club began to attain this goal. Tech Specs took over operation of the high school sound system and also the hi-fi system for school dances. This year, under Mr. Kauffman's direction, the technical specialists have achieved a fine beginning in their service to the school.

French Club aims to better understand French culture.

The French Club offered interesting meetings this year highlighting different phases of French culture and tradition. At the first meeting Bill Potter spoke of his trip to Europe during the summer of 1966. Members viewed movies and slides illustrating the history and geography of France. For the first time tureen dinners were begun to encourage larger attendance. Of course, the final meeting of the year was the traditional French Club banquet.

Social activities rank high in German Club planning.

The German Club, under the direction of Mr. Kauffman and Mr. Green, worked to acquaint its members with the culture as well as the language of Germany. A traditional German cider-doughnut get-together opened the year's activities. Then, in December, the annual Christmas Banquet featured a carol sing and a visit from Saint Nicholas. Later in the year, W. A. H. S. student visitors to Germany showed slides, narrating their experiences. In May the Club held a picnic to climax the year's activities.

An outgrowth of the German Club, the German Folksingers met throughout the year to provide entertainment with traditional German folk songs.

Interesting programs highlight Spanish Club meetings.

The Spanish Club combined just the right amount of recreation with study to give its members a working knowledge of Spain and the Spanish-speaking countries, including their culture. The club's yearly activities began with a tureen dinner followed by a hayride and a dance. In November the Spanish Club met to initiate its new members. A highlight of the year was the Christmas Pinata Party in which students celebrated Christmas as the Spanish do. As the Spanish students continued their studies, they also continued their meetings, which took the forms of a bowling party, and a dinner and film. The annual Spanish Club picnic rounded out the school year, leaving Spanish Club members with a better understanding of Spain and its language.

Continuing its monthly tureen dinners, the Russian Club again successfully achieved its record of 100 per cent membership of Russian students. Meeting for dinner, the students often eat authentic Russian dishes. An attempt is made to correlate the after dinner meeting with the season of the year — singing Russian Christmas carols and decorating Ukrainian Easter eggs. To the delight of the students this year, Russian films with English subtitles were shown. Russian Club always provides a welcome diversion from regular club meetings as an enjoyable method of learning.

Latin Club meets for tureen dinners.

Every third Tuesday of the month, the cafeteria was transformed into a Roman forum, as the Latin Club met for a tureen dinner. By reading various Latin writings, the group increased their knowledge and recreated famous periods of history. This year at Christmas time, the Latin and Russian Clubs combined for a tureen dinner and an exchange of culture, including a Russian film. The year was culminated by a banquet in which the members of the Latin Club dressed in traditional togas and tunics emphasizing Roman society.

Meeting at tureen dinners, the Latin Club members enjoyed good food and fine programs.

F. T. A. enjoys an unusually active year.

The Future Teachers of America enjoyed a very active year carefully following a pre-planned schedule of widely varied programs. Among the featured speakers this year were Chris Bryan and Sue Fogle telling of their summer student-aid jobs. Mr. and Mrs. Firestone delighted the group with slides of their year of teaching in England. The foreign exchange students Bassna Sadek, Le Van Dung, and Karl Rabat were also scheduled to inform students of the school systems in their countries. Mrs. Corey gave a program on exceptional children. In service to the school the F. T. A. provided students with calendars of school events. An exciting event of the year was the State Convention which this year was held in Harrisburg on April seventh and eighth. The F. T. A. prepared for the Convention with county-wide meetings held throughout the year. On October twenty-fifth the F. T. A. sponsored a county dinner, which boasted a very large attendance. As a final note to the year's activities a F. T. A. picnic was planned for early in May.

F. N. A. members prepare for prospective health careers.

This year, through various public projects, the members of the Future Nurses of America organization have prepared for future careers in service to mankind. Holding meetings every month, the girls soon became aware of various health careers which they could enter. Also, the girls worked diligently at bake sales in order to raise funds for a trip to the University of Pittsburgh Medical School in April. Wishing to interest other students in health careers, the F. N. A. presented an assembly at which Dr. O'Connor spoke. The club's public projects included selling apples during Dental Health Week and giving treats and slippers to the patients of the Warren State Hospital medical ward. This year the girls ordered charms or pins to signify their membership in the F. N. A.

Stenographers improve skills.

The Stenographers' Club enabled its members to continue their business studies in a most enjoyable manner. The club greatly contributed to its students' proficiency in typing, shorthand and dictation by assigning various tasks throughout the school which require such skills. Speakers from large companies such as Thomas Flexible Coupling visited club meetings and spoke on various aspects of business. By sponsoring two dances, members of the Stenographers' Club raised enough money to finance a trip to International Business Machine, Incorporated. In service to the community, each club member adopted a patient from the State Hospital, remembering her birthday and holidays with gifts and visits. With Mrs. McClure's supervision, the Stenographers' Club proved to be a useful and enjoyable part of each member's extra-curricular activities.

The F. B. L. A. encouraged its members to compete in business skill contests. The competitors and most active members attended a preliminary convention at Iroquois High School in Erie. The top scorers in this event went to Harrisburg in April for the national finals. Dances and the popcorn sales at all basketball games and wrestling matches yielded the funds for the convention. The service project consisted of filling baskets for the needy at Thanksgiving and Christmas. The F. B. L. A. combined competition, service, and work activities for a successful year.

The Future Homemakers of America organization was open to all girls enrolled in home ec courses. The regular bi-monthly meetings generally dealt with business matters or served as work bees for planned activities. The girls participated in their annual bazaar and bake sale, selling goods made by the girls themselves. The money earned sent the ten most active girls to the Farm Show in Harrisburg. The Future Homemakers initiated a service project this year, supplying rooms throughout the school with sewing kits equipped with needle and thread for the student's emergency use. The F. H. A. provided the members an opportunity to prepare for the future today.

Helping out "behind the scenes", the members of the stage crew were experienced in work on the curtain, in the pit, and on the catwalk. They handled lighting and helped with staging and props for school organizations and outside groups wishing to use the auditorium. Under the guidance of Mr. Oelslager, the crew worked on class plays, musicals, concerts, and assemblies and helped in performances by community sponsored groups. Working long hours, the stage crew received little retribution other than the enjoyment they derived from their work.

Many projects affiliated with Warren Area High School's athletic program kept the Varsity Club constantly on the move this year. Gathering all lettermen and two year athletes, the Varsity Club ushered at home football games and collected tickets at home basketball games and wrestling matches. One of the big projects of the year was the sale of Wunder Bar candy which gave the club the finances necessary for its other projects. Among these were the annual dance, this year using the theme "V-Club goes Mod," and the annual men teachers' basketball game early in April between Beaty and High School teachers. Advisors for the club were Mr. Lee Chew and Mr. William Vizza.

Saturday mornings find the Bowling Club at the alleys.

Every Saturday morning for twenty-eight weeks the Bowling Club met at Riverside Lanes for friendly competition among its members. The sixty members of the club were divided into twelve teams, each competing for the club championship. Anyone who was a student at Warren Area High School could belong to the Bowling Club, and so, any student looking for individual achievement as well as competition found what he wanted in this organization. Of course, there was the added attraction of trophies awarded to the outstanding teams at the end of the year. This year the Warren High Bowling Club won the Warren County High School Tournament in which teams from every county high school participated.

The weather cooperated with Ski Club for a long season.

The sixty members of the Ski Club are avid enthusiasts of this fast-growing sport. Haunting the slopes this past winter, they sought fast exercise and enjoyment. The club's advisor, Mr. Jewell, taught skiing fundamentals by example, but always stressed safety. Also, Ski Club dances provided the funds for a ski trip, the climax of the skiing year, to one of the area's resorts.

This year, as in the past, the Pep Club's members have succeeded in initiating school spirit at Dragon sporting events and pep assemblies. Receiving little recognition, they are the originators of much of the art work and the costumes at the pep assemblies. Through the sale of stadium cushions and other items at the games, the Pep Club has raised enough money to provide the school with a Dragon Mascot which was presented to the student body at the Christmas Assembly this year.

Colorful and attractive signs made by Pep Club members are placed around the school.

DRAGON Business Board provides financial support for the yearbook.

Because the DRAGON is always sold to the students at a price lower than costs permit, the DRAGON Business Board has the great task of making up the difference in finances. This is accomplished through sponsorship of dances, concessions at home football games, and solicitation of some of Warren's outstanding merchants. This money supplements the proceeds from the sales of books and plastic book covers. Through this contribution to the school, the DRAGON Business Board aids each student in purchasing a yearbook.

This year the DRAGON Board of Editors has made an effort to provide the students of Warren Area High School with a distinctive and original yearbook. A new cover design and a different approach to the senior section are some of the new ideas incorporated in the DRAGON. The advice and experience of Miss Lana Shield and the co-ordinated efforts of co-editors Chris Bryan and Bill Potter were responsible for unhindered publication of the yearbook. By using a theme stressing personal accomplishment of each individual, the DRAGON Board of Editors hopes to make a lasting contribution to Warren High.

Several changes were made in the format of this year's DRAGON.

Basketball 4.

Afoot and light-hearted I take to the open road.
Healthy, free, the world before me,
The long brown path before me leading wherever I choose.

Henceforth I ask not good-fortune, I myself am good-fortune,
Henceforth I whimper no more, postpone no more, need nothing,
Done with indoor complaints, libraries, querulous criticisms,
Strong and content I travel the open road.

Walt Whitman

The members of the 1967 DRAGON Business Board wish to express their sincere thanks for the fine support and encouragement which they received from the businessmen and other interested persons who have helped to make this yearbook possible.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

We wish to thank all the students and faculty members who have helped us with this volume of the DRAGON. Special thanks go to Miss Shield, our advisor, Mr. Passaro, our principal, and Mr. Edward Miller, our business advisor, for their invaluable help, to Mrs. Andersen, Mr. Kauffman, and Mr. Hughey for their special talents, and to James Hartman for the title page. Mr. Mahan deserves special recognition for his fine photography. To Mr. Berdine of Keystone Printing, Mr. Carlson of Zimmerman Engraving, and Mr. Don Miller of Kurtz Brothers we extend sincere appreciation. We also thank the WARREN TIMES-MIRROR and OBSERVER and the ERIE TIMES for their pictures.
